Cemetery Education and Restoration Series ($2,000)
Marion Public Library, Marion, Ind.
This project is designed to promote community interest and pride in local history through the preservation of the oldest cemetery in Marion. The Historic Estates of Serenity was originally established in 1827 by the Society of Friends as a burial ground for Quaker pioneers.

City of Martinsville Historic Downtown District Ordinance Revision and Supplementary Design Guidelines ($2,000)
City of Martinsville, Martinsville, Ind.
A professional consultant will be engaged to update the Historic Downtown District ordinance and develop supplementary design guidelines for the city's commercial core. Community forums and planning sessions will lead up to the consultant work.

Etched in Stone ($1,650)
Historic Connersville, Inc., Connersville, Ind.
Historic Connersville is expanding its tour program for middle school students and community members to include the City Cemetery, as well as Elmhurst, the home of Caleb Blood Smith, a local attorney who was Lincoln's Secretary of the Interior.

Harrison County Driving Tour ($2,000)
Historical Society of Harrison County, Corydon, Ind.
A driving tour booklet will highlight historic buildings, bridges, businesses, churches, parks, schools and other sites of interest in Harrison County. The project will be the inaugural exhibit to launch the Harrison County Museum, across from the First State Capitol.

Have You Been to the Historic South Bend City Cemetery? Project ($1,800)
South Bend Parks and Recreation Department, South Bend, Ind.
A self-guided audio tour and map will lead visitors through the City Cemetery, founded in 1832. Partners include the Center for History, Historic Preservation Commission and St. Mary's College Circle K Club.

Historic Preservation Through an Age- and Ability-Friendly Lens ($2,000)
Indiana Philanthropy Alliance, Indianapolis, Ind.
A full-day workshop will focus on historic preservation as an important tool in developing age- and ability-friendly communities. An extensive community resource guide will be printed for participants and related agencies.

Know Your Historic Home Workshop/Lecture Series ($2,000)
Huntington Historic Review Board, Huntington, Ind.
A series of workshops and lectures in Huntington will educate citizens about their local architectural heritage and its preservation. Topics may include: energy efficiency in historic homes, researching historic homes, historic photos and architectural styles.

Madison Urban Outbuilding Alley Tour ($1,014)
Historic Madison, Inc., Madison, Ind.
This innovative project will design an electronic tour of urban outbuildings and alleys in Madison, using geocaching and QR codes. Elementary school students have helped to document the outbuildings, and they will present what they have learned about the carriage barns, livery stables and other “back of house” structures.

Mid-Century Modernism in Rensselaer ($1,800)
Historic Preservation Association of Jasper County, Rensselaer, Ind.
A tour of mid-century modern architecture in Rensselaer, primarily the work of Frank H. Fischer, will take place in August. Six of the buildings are on the campus of St. Joseph's College, which will host talks by preservation expert Kurt Garner and Joseph Fischer, the architect’s son.

Old City Hall Building Student Study Trips ($1,800)
Fort Wayne History Center, Fort Wayne, Ind.
Free student tours of the Old City Hall, a recently restored example of Richardsonian Romanesque architecture, will be given during the fall semester. Students will learn about local history and government, as well as architecture, while touring the Old City Courtroom and City Council Chambers. The building is now the home of the Fort Wayne History Center.

The Soul of Indiana’s Communities ($500)
Ball State University, Muncie, Ind.
Indiana’s Bicentennial in 2016 represents an opportune time to explore and celebrate one of the state’s strongest cultural and historical assets – the small Midwestern town. A collection of photographs, with images of historic downtown districts in non-county seat towns in east central and southeast Indiana, will be created and made available to the Bicentennial Commission, Office of Tourism Development and the public.

Walking Tour Guide for Bremen, Indiana ($1,800)
Historic Bremen, Inc., Bremen, Ind.
A 36-page booklet of historic buildings will guide visitors on a walking tour of Bremen, Indiana. The architectural line drawings in the booklet were created by students at Bremen High School, using computer technology.
